About MARC

As a research center Milvus Artistic Research Center (MARC) fosters a dialogue between craft and innovation, theory and practice, and creativity and knowledge through investigation in the field of performance. MARC was established in 2013 and invites artists throughout the year to participate in up to one-month artistic residencies at the center. In a former shoe factory in Knislinge, MARC offers an environment for artistic research outside the usual context of the big city. Through the residency program MARC provides a platform where performance practices, working modes, and methodologies are questioned and new work is created and shared between artists and audience.
